

Dear Brookline Students,

We hope this communication finds you and your families safe and healthy. As we come into June and enter our twelfth week in a remote educational and operational modality, our community is performing well. This success is driven by your dedication and continued efforts as well as the commitment from our outstanding faculty. Your collective commitment to each other and your education is the greatest strength of Brookline, and this crisis has proven your metal and your commitment to your goals.

Two weeks ago we conducted an online survey requesting your thoughts, feelings and concerns about returning to the physical Campuses. We truly appreciate your feedback and it has helped tremendously to determine the best path forward placing safety and health as the primary focus. It was clear from the survey results that many of you were not comfortable with a full return. Many of you expressed an understanding that some skills are required to be taught in-person but, wherever possible, you would prefer to remain online during the current module.

Therefore, our Campuses will continue to be utilized as resource centers only for the June semester module. The Brookline Administration will revisit the situation over the coming weeks and make further decisions as more information becomes available. We want to also assure you that when we do return to the Campuses, the process will be thoughtful, paced and communicated in advance. The priority will be first on the health and safety of our students, faculty and employees and second on your academic progress and goals. We are committed to working with each of you to find the appropriate academic pathway that works for you.

As the summer begins please stay safe and reach out to us with any issues, ideas or concerns. We look forward to seeing all your smiling faces in person one day soon.

Stay safe and healthy,

Brookline College
